

Stop reconstructing your tax control environment after the fact. Watch it happen.

A real-time view of your tax control environment, with every workflow tracked and evidenced as it happens.

The problem

Most in-house tax teams can describe their control environment on paper: who reviews what, what the escalation triggers are. What they cannot do is show it happening in real time. Evidence gets reconstructed after the fact, ahead of an audit or a board question, pulled together from emails and spreadsheets that were never built to be evidence.

What it delivers

- Tax-type-agnostic by design: tracks and evidences whatever tax workflows your team puts into it, whatever the tax type.
- Live dashboarding across those workflows: in progress, overdue or signed off, visible as it happens rather than reconstructed afterward.
- Operationalises and evidences your tax control environment: the governance you already have on paper gets a live, auditable trail behind it.
- Full audit trail: every status change and sign-off is tracked, not assumed.
- Runs as a SaaS solution or inside your own environment, with no licence fee for an in-house tax function; an advisory firm licensing it for its own fee-earners is quoted a subscription in writing.

Built by people who have lived within the tax domain. Delivery here includes helping you embed the governance around what the tool evidences, not just shipping the software.

Every tax workflow you run, whatever the tax type, in one live view, with a full audit trail as the evidence behind it.

Who it's for

Head of Tax or tax team lead who needs to demonstrate, not just describe, an active control environment, particularly ahead of an audit, a board review or a co-operative compliance conversation with a tax authority.

Got a tax technology problem? Let's talk for 15 minutes.

No pitch, no obligation, just a focused conversation about where technology could take the manual work out of your tax function.

TaxTrack evidences and operationalises your tax control framework: it does not constitute that framework and does not discharge the organisation's governance responsibilities. The control framework, its design, ownership and operation, remains yours.
